GUEST LECTURES

1) HELLENISTIC ARMENIA (V. KOZÁK) – April 9 and 16

2) HELLENISTIC BACTRIA: ARCHAEOLOGICAL PERSPECTIVE (L. STANČO) – April 23

The lecture focuses on the process of formation and development of a Greek-governed state in Bactria, Central Asia. Starting from the Alexander the Great campaign, we shall discuss briefly principal economic and military aspects of the “Hellenistic Far East”, taking into account peculiarities of the Seleucid and Greco-Bactrian periods. Having at hand only scarce written sources on the area in question, almost all evidence comes from the archaeological research, recent one including that of the Czech-Uzbek team.

3) BACTRIA IN THE HELLENISTIC PERIOD - SETTLEMENT PATTERNS (J. HAVLÍK) – April 30

The lecture will outline a settlement transformation that occurred in Bactria (Upper Amu Darya basin) as a consequence of the Greek conquest of the area. Based on excavations and surveys from different parts of Bactria, general settlement trends will be defined on both regional and site level. Several settlement sites of different character will be described in order to present large (urban) sites as well as minor ones. Special attention will be paid to site of Ai Khanoum including its rural hinterland.
